'DEVELOPING INFRASTRUCTURE IN VIETNAM, TO BE OR NOT TO BE?'

Andrew Chan Yik Hong
Executive Director PwC
Andrew currently leads the PricewaterhouseCoopers Infrastructure,
Government and Utilities team in Malaysia,
Thailand, Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos

TUESDAY, 24 February 2009

At Caravelle Hotel
From 12 noon to 2.00pm

In light of global economic developments Vietnam has been provided a breathing space in which to allow its creaking and sometimes nonexistent infrastructure to catch up with its growth, can it and is able to take advantage?

Our speakers will address whether Vietnam is making the most of this breathing space despite the current global capital shortage.

- Infrastructure development in Vietnam: Insights and way forward.
- Infrastructure, a shipping line point of view

Paul Hoogwaerts
