

IS YOUR CASH TRAPPED IN VIETNAM?

Wednesday June 8th, 2011; 11:45am - 2pm; New World Saigon Hotel

Members & Co-host members: VND650,000 - Non-members: VND750,000

Repatriating cash to overseas is not always easy. Different tax rules, foreign exchange regulations and corporate compliance obligations may stand in the way. For example, you will need approval from tax authorities to pay dividends. Or you will have to follow State Bank of Vietnam rules when you want to reimburse a loan. These obstacles can cause painful delays or even make cash extraction impossible in some situations.

How to deal with this in practice? Which solutions exist?

- How can your cash get trapped? Read the early warning signs
- Making money but no dividend allowed: Case Study
- Unwinding your subsidiary in Vietnam
- Do Capital reductions and stock buy back work?
- How to avoid the deferred tax trap?
- State Bank of Vietnam regulations on cash extraction.

Guest Speaker

Jean Loi
Partner
DFDL Mekong

Jean Loi has 18 years of tax consulting experience, 4 of which in Vietnam and 9 in the region. She is regarded as a specialist in Vietnam cross border tax issues, particularly in relation to infrastructure and energy, logistics and mergers & acquisitions. She was a tax partner at a Big 4 in Vietnam where she specialized in corporate tax advisory assisting clients in market entry and acquisitions.

Jean's clients in Vietnam include banks, multinational enterprises, power plant developers and private equity funds. She is particularly experienced in Foreign Contractor Tax issues, Corporate Income Tax and Indirect taxes. Because of her knowledge of Singapore tax law, she is very well placed to advise on regional tax issues and tax planning structures covering Vietnam, Cambodia, Thailand, Myanmar and Singapore.

Co-hosted by

As seating is limited, please register in advance through the CanCham Office at email: hcmc@canchamvietnam.org

2011 Platinum Corporate Sponsors

+++ All cancellations need to be made 24 hours prior the event date otherwise "no show" will be charged